

Please do not implement any proposal that would lessen the telephone privacy of the residents of Indiana. I am on the telemarketer "no call" list and love it. My household no longer receives annoying telemarketer calls at all times of the day and evening. I believe the FCC should use Indiana's no call list as a model for one for everybody. Calls from telemarketers are annoying no matter what time of the day you receive them and they are also very bothersome to people who work nights and try to sleep during the day. Again, please don't implement a proposal that would lessen Indiana's telephone privacy. Use us as a model for the rest of the nation.
